Dear Kelly and John,

This note is in honor of our first snowfall in Misawa. None is sticking to the ground yet, but there are fleecies of quarter sized flakes. The wind is blowing about 30 mph, so actually we could be seeing the same snow flakes several times, I guess.

You'll probably never speak to us again - bowing to popular demand, we dressed the mutts up in their designer gowns for Halloween - we will send snapshots. Kate ~~wasn't~~ ^{wasn't} bad, her outfit was kind of like a horse & blanket. Jess, on the other hand, had been given doggie knickers + a sailor hat - she was doggie disgust personified!

The darts tournament took place without us - the bell rang + I failed to leave my corner - but Wayne went + he + his partner came in 4th of 16 - just out of the money. We are going down to shoot more this evening.

We have hired 2 ten year olds to walk the dog when they ^(the kids) come home from school. I think it's going to work out really well. The dogs + the boys get along well + it lets Wayne + I have some freedom at the end of the day. We're taking up racquetball as a winter sport + are trying to play at least twice a week.

We love you,

Born
